An adequate and modern hotel.
A community building containing an auditorium, woman's rest room, and memorial hall for soldiers, sailors and nurses.
Traffic regulations which will reduce danger on streets to the minimum.
A street car service which will answer the needs of an increasing population.
Improved streets in the city and better roads in the county.
A survey of the housing situation with a view of discouraging exorbitant rentals for both rooms and houses.
Careful appraisal of property, particularly that of those who have increased their rentals, so that they may pay their fair share of the taxes.

An indoor recreation center in which dances and sporting events may be held.
More parks and playgrounds for use of the entire community.
Protected ice-skating rinks for children.

HOTEL WILL BE BUILT.
The spirit of "get there" manifested at the meeting of the stockholders and others in the hotel proposition last night is the first answer to the challenge to Janesville. There is every indication that before nightfall the necessary amount of money will be subscribed to insure the erection of the hotel.
This was the first opportunity for Janesville to speak since the call to action was made on Monday.
It is indicative that the rest of the program will be carried out. Sometimes even a thoroughbred racer needs a spur.

THE SPRING ELECTIONS.
Sometimes people are interested in spring elections. Generally it is a matter of personal friendships in wards. There is little of the party spirit and this is a good thing—good for the people and good for the city. If you were to hire a man for an important job of management you would not ask him whether he was a democrat or a republican, would you? And no one would expect a man to even be a very efficient manager at $250 a year. The job of alderman is a thankless one at best. His path is not one bordered with roses. He cannot always please, and should he try he will fall between two dilemmas. But there will always be candidates for the place. This year Janesville is to elect one from each of the five wards. The people who have criticized or failed to support the alderman have another chance on April 6.
One of the reasons why the people fail in securing what they want is that they do not go to the city hall. That hall is their building, erected with their money. Yet they seldom think to go there and by their presence aid a member of the council and to help stiffen his backbone. It is well to remember that the men who have private interests to serve or the corporations who make money only from public service based on rights granted them by the people through the council, are always present when those interests are at stake.
The situation in Janesville should demand the very best men that can be secured to stand for election this spring. There will be many vital things to consider, many problems to solve, much work to be done requiring clear vision and a patriotic devotion to the best interests of the city. It is a good time to begin right now and look around for candidates.

NEWS FROM HOME.
One must needs go away from home to get the news. Here we read in the Chicago Journal that Governor Philipp is a candidate for president. "Reports," says the Journal, "from Wisconsin heard at Republican headquarters (in Chicago) added the Badger state's governor to the list of candidates for the G. O. P. nomination for president." Later it adds that Wisconsin is the only state in the union with two candidates, the other being no less a person than Robert M. La Follette. Happy, too, in its remarks is the Chicago paper. It says that "Gov. Philipp is liberal in his ideas and might have the support of the vets."
One thing only remained to be added: that the final ticket might be Edwards and Philipp. That would give out all party lines and assure perfect harmony in both parties and give an unheard of snap to a campaign usually dull and stereotyped.
The suspension of the operations of the Fairchild railroad will be a tragedy for the towns and hamlets which have been built along the line in Eau Claire and Clark counties. And there is nothing that can be done to prevent it. "It did not pay," said the millionaire owner. That's a very big question, too. "What pays?" Can a transportation line, the very existence of which caused many people to go along its tracks and buy and develop property, suddenly take all the props from under these people? It can. It is a gamble when all depends on one thing, and sometimes the dependents lose.

There is always someone to take the joy out of the pessimist. He has been having a gladsome time predicting all sorts of robbery of the public on account of the railroads going back to private ownership when along comes the president of the Erie railroad and says that he looks for 2-cent fares and a lower freight rate with many other adjustments for public good. Can't something be done to stop him?
It will be an inspiring occasion when the 32nd division meets in its first grand reunion at Milwaukee in September. In the pages of the history of the World War achievements of the 32nd will be one of the brightest chapters. Rock county's contribution to that fighting division was of the best and its members will be deeply interested in the gathering in the fall.
Public sentiment killed the rail strike in France. The press of France was bitterly and uncompromisingly opposed, and the people with unanimous voice inveighed against it. So it lasted but a few days and the men went back to work.

THE CHEERFUL WORKER.
Used to think that plowin' fields held nothin' interestin'—
Until I learned to hear the birds an' watch 'em at the nestin';
Used to think the rows were long an' difficult to follow,
Until I got to lookin' for a certain friendly swallow.
Used to curse the tasks I had an' all the ills that bound me
Until I woke one day to see the blossoms all around me.
Then I was sick at heart an' sad an' grumbled at my duty,
I only saw the muddy earth an' missed its lovely beauty;
The yellow clay was on my boots an' it was hard to clean them.
Yet they had walked on violets an' I had never seen them;
Then many were only men to me who toiled for meager payment—
Until I learned to see their souls beneath their outer raiment.
But now, although the work is hard, I know there's fun behind it,
For I have learned at every turn that I may surely find it;
An' I have learned to know the birds an' every song they sing;
I know just where they build their nests an' just what food they're bringin';
I know the wild flowers by their names, an' where the partridge hovers,
An' I am always on the watch for what I may discover.

Gambler's Paradise
By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Hannan, Cuba, March 4.—In this city you may find a man who, from the time you arise in the morning until you go to bed the next morning, can be seen by you in the line of a ticket in the national lottery, which affords you a stirring opportunity to win a hundred thousand dollars out of the national lottery. The afternoon you can go out to the race track and risk any amount you please on your own judgment or that of a professional tipster. At night you can go to a game of Jai Alai, where you can get covering for almost any amount of money you care to show. In between these you can sit in any kind of game you choose.

Jai Alai Most Picturesque
Of all these varied ways of losing your money, distinctly the most interesting and to the visitors the most picturesque, is the game of Jai Alai. Indeed, after a careful inventory of the entire city, we are inclined to say that Jai Alai is the best thing that Havana has to show. And yet you can see it at a dozen different places among the thousands which attend the game, and almost nothing seems to be known of it in this country.

Jai Alai may best be described as a glorified handball game, with one ball, taken out of the court. The handball game is played in a room 30 or 40 feet long, the procedure simply being to knock the ball against one of the end walls. The ball is a small, hard, elastic ball, and the player is allowed to use his hands, arms, legs, and feet. The game is played in a room 30 or 40 feet long, the procedure simply being to knock the ball against one of the end walls. The ball is a small, hard, elastic ball, and the player is allowed to use his hands, arms, legs, and feet.

Court Is Block Long
In Jai Alai the court is more than a city block in length and probably over a hundred feet high to its ceiling, from which great banks of lights glare down upon it. One of the long walls is taken out and replaced by a foul line, back of which is a grandstand which holds about three thousand spectators.

Naturally, no human hand unaided could propel a ball the length of this court, so the pelotari, as the players are called, use a peculiar instrument which is probably the most effective one for the application of man-power to a ball ever invented. It is a long, thin, curved stick, and looks like a huge eagle's claw, being curved in about the same degree and perhaps three feet long. The player uses it to propel the ball, which is caught and propelled in a curved groove. But to try to describe the manipulation of this curious implement is hopeless. Justice it is to say that the pelotari is able not only to throw the ball a city block, but to make it rebound a city block and hit the back wall.

Game Originated in Spain
The game, which originated somewhere in Spain, is still played in that country, and pretty much all over Latin-America. Nearly all of the players are professionals, and travel from one country to another. They have their pictures in the papers and are the heroes of small boys, exactly like our great baseball players. In this country, however, the game is really high order and of a most exceptional grade.

The Jai Alai court is in a large and fine building, owned by a man and his family, who own and remunerate to its owners. In addition to the court and the grandstand, it contains a large bank with about 20 tellers, where the bets are settled; a bar, lunch counter, and a cafe. The tickets are practically all sold by scalpers. The best of them are supposed to cost for less than three times its alleged box-office price.

All Stand During Game
The game begins with the playing of the national hymn or anthem, or whatever it may be called. At this, game people stand, and all the men remain standing until the game is over. The excitement is intense, almost screaming in the early stages of the game. In a long row before the grand stand are book-makers, distinguished by funny little red caps. They sit out the game, and have to offer, basing them on the score which is marked up on a huge board in sight of all. Everyone in the place seems bent on making bets, not only with the book-makers

LORD READING
Recent reports are most positively that Lord Reading will be the next ambassador from Great Britain to the United States. Lord Grey, sent to the U. Lord Grey's appointment was a temporary one at the time, as he has been troubled with weak eyes. He was asked to serve because of important diplomatic matters of the war and its aftermath.

Lord Reading
Lord Reading was ambassador to the United States for a period during the war and is credited with having filled the office ably. He is a Lord of the Realm and will resign that position, of course, if appointed ambassador.

What a fine "challenge" for Janesville. But I wonder if it will rise itself long enough to respond. The Samson does not seem to be very puffed up with the possibilities of Janesville. Q. Do soils necessarily wear out?
G. E. M.

Q. Certain soils in Europe that have been farmed for a thousand years are as good as the new ground in America. There are 10 elements that are necessary to the growth of crops. Of these carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, iron and sulphur seem always present in the quantities necessary and in such abundance that they may be exhausted are potassium, magnesium, nitrates, phosphorus and calcium. Soils should be analyzed to determine which of these materials are needed and the proper fertilizer or crop rotation used. Thus may the worst of soil-worn-out soils be saved.

Q. Can the old principle of barter be applied to the present trade situation?
H. T.

A. The exchange of commodities for commodities without the use of money is actually being practiced in international trade today. Certain traders are exchanging goods with one another to be in demand in foreign countries, are taking them to those countries and are exchanging them for goods that are in demand here. The transaction is pure barter and circumvents the difficulties presented by the exchange situation.

THE ROUND-OFF
By Ed. J. Adams
"I want to give you a little trick today," said Beppo when the boys entered the barn.
"You take quick step on the mat—placed both hands on the canvas and it looked as though he had started a cart-wheel but it didn't finish like a cart-wheel for the boy gave a sharp twist and he landed on both feet and the instant his feet touched the mat his body straightened up and he landed high in the air.
"That's a Round-Off, and it is one of the most important things a tumbler learns, for it is the start for a row of flips or for a high back somersault in the air. It's the little trick that gives one the speed for a lot of other more difficult stunts.
"You take a quick step—when the left foot is forward put both hands on the mat, right hand ahead of the left—now your body goes up as in a cart-wheel—but when, in the air, give a quick twist to the left and a hard push from both hands and bring your legs down fast—at the same time lift the body and straighten up. You see my feet landed about where my hands were, and I was facing in the opposite direction from where I started."
He watched them practice for a few minutes and found that the last part of the trick alone. He had the boys start as though they were going to walk on their hands. But, instead of walking he made them push snappily from their hands and land on their feet, coming to a straight standing position, and to make it still more classy he had them leap high in the air, tossing their heads back and their chests out as they did it. "Time," exclaimed Beppo, "the last half of the Round-Off is called the Snap-Down, and if you work hard this week you will have both in good style."

KATY DID AND KATY DIDN'T
By Mollie Price Cook.
"Oh, I beg your pardon!" said Katy as she accidentally pushed against a woman in the crowded car. "That's a polite girl," remarked the woman to her companion.
Katy overheard her and a feeling of pride surged in her. "Mother is right," she mused. "It does pay to watch four manners. I wish I could always do the right thing at the right time. The Palmes girls certainly know how to make people like them. They do nice little things for everybody and seem to be good natured and happy."

On the car, she met one of the girls. "Hello, Kate," she called. "Come along while I buy the groceries." The girls went into the store and stood before the counter. A large fat woman thrust her way right in front of them. "Give me a dozen eggs," she said to the clerk in a busy tone of voice. The girls felt resentful, but could not keep from giggling. The woman glared at them, and, as she went into the store, she dropped her purse. Katy scooped to pick it up, but her friend pulled her back, saying, "Let the fat old thing look after herself."

When Katy reached home she kept thinking about the woman and the purse, and felt a little ashamed. Courtesy would have cost her nothing and would have helped that impolite woman a great deal. People respect and kindness, she said to herself. "Good manners and a cheerful face make everybody like you. When people are rude to me, I feel like a worm. I feel like a Queen. I'd rather feel like a Queen than like a worm—THEREFORE I'm going to be like the well-mannered people I love. It's politeness, sweetness, unselfishness, and a good disposition all mixed up together. That's the way I'm going to be—undoubtedly I shall not forget to use thank you and excuse me; to help others whenever I can; to forget myself; to cultivate real manners."

AMATEUR MAY PLAY WITH SAMSON NINE

An amateur who bids well to show his old times some of their own stuff is being considered by Manager George Perring for a berth on the Samson baseball nine. He is Frank Andrews who first saw the light of day and made his stamping grounds at Sharon for most of 21 years until he came to Janesville a short time ago to work for the big tractor company. Andrews has never played professional ball but he has the real goods. Most of his diamond work has been with home town teams such as Sharon, Darice, Walworth and Harvard. The thing that stands out is that he has made good. This kid's position is that of an infielder. He's as snappy as can be expected from a chap who has never such a penny kind of play that he pulls off that Perring is seriously giving him a little more than the once over. In fact the Samson manager has seen him in action many times and that's how he knows so much about him.

In addition there will be a program of special events and the individual indoor all round championship. WRESTLING MATCH OFF INDEFINITELY With an acceptance by Jack Williams of the answer to his challenge by Henry Stoff, local wrestler, comes the news today that because of the Samson suspension Stoff has decided to leave Janesville. This seems an unfortunate situation just when a revival of the mat sport was assured for the city. Stoff left today for Chicago where he is to undergo an operation to have his tonsils removed. He will then go back to his home at Duquesne. Whether he returns here depends upon the outcome at the big tractor plant where he was working as a carpenter.

GEORGE WASHINGTON WOULD HAVE LOST AT THIS GAME

We learn that George Washington Denkins retired from his campaign against the bolsheviki a system of warfare was developed, unique in military annals. When he had his troops properly lined up against the enemy, he would put up a white flag, meet a representative of the bolsheviki and discuss matters. Each side would state the number of fatalities he possessed and the one with the strongest forces would be credited with a victory. This method saved a great deal of ammunition and was much quicker than the old way of fighting it out. The most convincing liar won the day. But the bolsheviki proved themselves better qualified in the long run.

Health Talks

By WILLIAM PRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author.

Dr. Prady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Prady, in care of this paper.

THAT OTHER STORY

Notwithstanding the greatest precaution I am always uttering some careless remarks in this department which lets me in for a storm time with the mail. Here recently I pool-pooled romantic love, and I believe some readers know perfectly well that romantic love is not the tie that exists between husband and wife, father and son or others who know the meaning of love.

Then, in another talk about the influence of ductless glands on the skin, I spoke of treatment by the individual's physician directed toward these glands and added, thoughtlessly enough, that there are other means, natural means, of arousing the weary ductless glands to their duty. A shower of letters for the details at once fell upon me. It seemed that several thousand readers were eager to hear that other story, the old story, the one that had all the symptoms and must avail themselves of those natural means of putting the ductless glands back on the stage. Dr. Leon sought the same thing.

I have been trying for years to tell that other story here. I have consistently hammered on the idea nearly every article in this department. Perhaps many of the querists assumed that I had some particular remedy in mind. I have spoken of arousing the ductless glands by natural means. Nature, nowadays, is chiefly fettered by bad habits, who have some plausibility to market.

The ductless gland function—supplying to the blood the "internal secretions" or hormones which control life processes as a ferment controls the digestion of albumin in the stomach—is subjected to abuse by nearly every one who guesses and obeys the simple laws of hygiene. The ductless gland function is overworked in the business of fighting all kinds of preventable infections by needless worry and by other bad emotions; by the habitual use of drugs of the stimulant class; by the strains and stresses of innumerable kinds.

The "natural means" of arousing the ductless glands is their duties when they have become exhausted.

GOOD-BISCUITS.

Plain Biscuits.—Two cups flour, four tablespoons baking powder, one teaspoon salt, three tablespoons shortening, two-thirds to three-quarters cup liquid (milk or water).
Sift dry ingredients, rub in fat with fork, and add liquid gradually to make a dough that can just be handled. Roll to better to moisten a portion of the flour than push it to one side of the bowl while moistening the remainder. Mix as lightly and as quickly as possible.
Turn out on a floured board, pat or roll to one-half inch thickness, cut with a floured cutter, place in oiled pan, brush tops with milk and bake in a hot oven 10 to 15 minutes.

Note.—Flour is measured after it has been sifted and all measurements are level, unless the standard measure is measured cup and standard spoons.

Sour Milk or Buttermilk Biscuits.—Use buttermilk or sour milk for liquid and substitute one teaspoon baking soda for baking powder. Or allow half a teaspoon of soda for each cup of sour or buttermilk and use half the amount of baking powder.

Cheese Biscuits.—Because of the fat contained in the cheese use one tablespoon less shortening than for plain biscuits. After the shortening has been added to the dry ingredients add one-half cup grated cheese and finish in the same manner.

Main Biscuits.—As with the cheese biscuits use one tablespoon less shortening than for plain biscuits. Add one-half cup minced ham to the dry ingredients and shortening and proceed as before.

Plain Biscuits.—To the recipe for plain biscuits add one tablespoon granulated sugar to the dry ingredients and one-half cup clear, cold, chopped raisins to the mixed shortening and dry ingredients. Proceed as before.

TRY THESE.
Mutton Pie.—One pound of shoulder mutton, half cup of flour, one onion, one carrot, six potatoes, one tablespoon of fat substitute, one teaspoon of salt, one egg, one cup of milk, one cup of water, one cup of raisins, one cup of currants, one cup of cranberries, one cup of apples, one cup of peaches, one cup of cherries, one cup of plums, one cup of pears, one cup of grapes, one cup of figs, one cup of dates, one cup of figs, one cup of dates, one cup of figs, one cup of dates.

Cook vegetables and meat in water to cover, but boil potatoes separately. Prepare one cup of mashed potatoes, one cup of diced vegetables and place in baking dish. Add the diced meat and cover with the liquor in which these have been cooked slightly thickened with flour.

Mix the mashed potatoes with flour and baking powder and spread over the top of the dish. Bake for 20 minutes until crust is browned.

Irish Stew.—Two pounds forequarter of lamb, two quarts of boiling water, four tablespoons flour, four potatoes, one onion, one carrot, one white turnip, two teaspoons salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper.

Cut the meat in dice, removing the fat. Then cover with boiling water and simmer gently for about one hour. Add the seasonings and the various vegetables cut into cubes, cooking for one hour longer.

The sliced potatoes are added last and cooked with the rest of the ingredients for 20 minutes longer. The stew is then thickened by adding the flour mixed with cold water to a paste.

Eau Claire Milk Dealers.
Drop Price Cent Per Quart

Eau Claire, March 4.—All milk dealers in Eau Claire have just dropped the price of milk one cent, milk now retailing at 12 cents a quart.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

I worked in the garden today as long as I felt able, then took some sewing out on the porch. Perhaps I was over-tired; perhaps this is just one of my inevitable nervous days. Anyway, try as I would to keep them out, gloomy thoughts forced their way into my head and whirled there like dead leaves in autumn.

After a while, in trying to thread my needle, I noticed it was growing dusk. I looked at my watch and saw that Jim usually comes home from the bridge works. The thought of Rose Green flashed into my mind. Agatha, Pardee's hint, "Taint so much her pretensions as 'tis her ways; she takes after her sky-larkin father," persistently picked me, though I had not thought of it for weeks.

What if Rose Green, typewriter and file clerk at the works, had appealed to Jim with her sweet, youthful face and her talking ways? Could one blame Jim for wanting to look at a charming girl once in a while—perhaps as a change from looking at a wife who is killing much of the time, as she passes into the unlovely aspects of approaching maternity? Ah! the tormenting thoughts that beset the sensitized brain of the waiting mother! Silly thoughts, unfounded fears.

I glanced down the road. As if some demon spirit had arranged a tableau just to mock me, there stood Jim and Rose Green at the gate of each other, his hand on her rose petal face, and she looking up at him with a smile.

Clenching my hands and shutting my lips hard, I hurried into the house. I felt like crying, like laughing, like shrieking, like running about and beseeking some one to help me. I knew I was silly, I knew I was unreasonable and ill and out of balance.

I fled to my bedroom and stared at myself in the glass. Was I still pretty? Had I lost all girlishness and grace? Were my clothes fresh and becoming and as charming as I could procure? The mirror encouraged me.

I ran downstairs and met Jim just coming in the door.

"Oh, Jimmie, what kept you so late?" I blurted out excitedly.

Jim took me in his arms and kissed me lovingly.

"Am I late?" he asked in a tone of such genuine surprise that I felt worse than ever.

"Nearly an hour," I said coldly. "But time does pass quickly when one is interested in a new and charming personality. I suppose I must get used to it. I'm just—just a wife."

Jim caught the bitterness in my tone.

"Why, you silly pussy kitten!" he cried, pretending to shake me.

"What crazy idea have you got under your flaming topknot now? Because I talked to Rose Green, that—that child? Why, the poor youngster has been planning herself in my path for a week trying to get a few words with me. I got tired of having her hovering and gave her a chance to talk. She wants to go to New York."

"And what have you to do with her going to New York?" I questioned, unmollified.

"Oh, advice, letters of introduction, references, fatherly stuff," answered Jim with a dismissing gesture. "Now let's forget it, silliness, and have dinner."

The woman remembers it and wonders what the girl's real motives are.

Plans for bird houses are simple. It would be well to read the article in Monday's Gazette written by James Franklin of Janesville on this subject. It will help.

You would not make the same kind of a bird house for a wren as you would a robin. It is hoped that every house around which there are trees will have a home for the birds this spring. They will come back.

Janesville fans can guess. If you don't believe it, you should have been around this morning when it started to snow. Not that they feel that a little storm will dampen their ardor to take the trip to Beloit tonight to boost the Lakota Cardinals to a victory over the Fairbanks-Morse, but they are afraid that storm will hold up transportation. However, assurances were given. White tractors company that their cars are running along on schedule and every effort will be made to keep them so. A special interurban car will leave Janesville at 7 o'clock this evening to carry the local rooters—400 are expected to go—to the Line city. Returning, the car will leave Beloit at 1:15 a. m. after the big dance is over.

Gala Night

Tonight's a gala night in Janesville. The game will start at 8:15 and from 7:15 until the opening whistle the Fairy band will keep the crowd happy with lots of jazz. While at the two other games played in the Gateway city there have been close on to 1,100 fans, it is expected that the call for the party place will run up to 1,500. No advance tickets will be sold, admission being reserved for sale at the door. A large section has been reserved for Janesville. Following the game a dance will be held at the Cosmo hall with music furnished by the Lakota orchestra.

As to the teams, the Fairies, according to reports are in first class shape. In their last game they pulled up a great score. The Cards are going at a fast clip. Weiss, who played a whale of a game in the first contest with the Beloit five this season, will start at center. The rest of the lineup is the regular bunch.

ALL-STAR TO PLAY ST. PAUL CHURCH FIVE

The All Stars play the St. Paul church team tomorrow at the "Y". The St. Paul Lutherans have a fast bunch and will give the Stars a fast game. The Stars will have their same line-up with Babcock and Bick at forwards, Duellman at center and Craft, Gresslin, Zahn and Prox at guards. St. Paul will have Schilling and Egbert at forwards with Maurice at center and Zahn and Hill at guard. Game starts at 7:45.

The Gazette trophy to be given to the team having the best standing in the City Bowling league has arrived. It will be on exhibition at J. J. Smith's jewelry store, 313 West Milwaukee street, on and after tomorrow.

The trophy is a beautiful piece of workmanship with a silver hall mounted on three fallen silver pins the whole set in a gunmetal base. It is planned to present it at a banquet of the league members to be held shortly after the league closes late this month.

Present indications point to either the Arcade or Samson teams being the lucky teams. A strong fight is being centered between them with the Arcade .094 points in the lead. The Gazette until recently was a factor in the race, but now has only a chance for second place with only 12 games remaining.

The trophy is to be a permanent one. To keep it a team will have to win it three consecutive times.

GENGLER SIGNS TO BOWL AGAINST SMITH

Chicago, March 4.—John Gengler of Chicago and Jimmy Smith of Milwaukee have finally signed articles for a world's bowling championship match. They will roll sixty games, ten games a night, for six consecutive nights with total pins counting. The series will start March 21 at Randolph alleys here. The second block will be rolled in Milwaukee the following afternoon, and succeeding blocks in alternate cities.

Gengler appeared at the Janesville West Side alleys a few weeks ago where he gave an exhibition of his prowess.

ONE-SIDED GAMES PLAYED LAST NIGHT IN CHURCH LEAGUE

Uneven scores marked the games in the church basketball league at the high school last night. St. Peter's defeated St. Mary's 19 to 3. The United Brethren took a fall out of the First Lutheran, 15 to 3. St. Mary's came near getting whitewashed. They were so far outclassed that only a last minute desperate shot by Crowley gave them their lone basket. Babcock was the star for the St. Peter's five, being good for five ringers. St. Mary's was guilty of some rough stuff. Score at half time stood 11-0.

The game between the U. B. and the Lutherans was far better. At half time the markings stood 4-0. The Lutheran scoring being done in the second half. Creighton made four baskets.

Dempsey Enters Ring For Exhibition Bout

Los Angeles, March 4.—Jack Dempsey will enter the ring tomorrow night for the first time since he won the heavyweight championship at Toledo, Ohio, July 4 last, to box four exhibition rounds with Terry Keller of New York. Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, in making the announcement said Keller years ago boxed to a draw with Dempsey. Keller also claims to have won a decision over Joe Beckett, English heavyweight, when the latter was fighting under another name. Dempsey has been training daily for several weeks with Bill Taw, his colored sparring partner.

SALE OF GROUNDS OF BOSTON AMERICANS STOPPED BY COURT

Boston, Mass., March 4.—Auction sale of Fenway park grounds of the Boston American league club, which was advertised for yesterday, was postponed a week as a result of court proceedings brought by President H. H. Frazee. Subsequently Frazee said that his differences with former President J. J. Lannin, probably would be settled out of court within a day or two. Lannin claims that Frazee has failed to meet a note for $252,000 given as part payment for the club.

FIGHT DECISIONS

Wichita.—Joe Stecher defeated John Olin in straight falls.
Philadelphia.—Jimmy Wilde outpointed Patsy Wallace in six rounds.
Detroit.—Jack Sharkey and Roy Moore fought ten rounds to a draw.

PROX AND NICHOLS IN EXHIBITION BOUT FOR LEGION MEMBERS

Joe Prox and Eddie Nichols battled a four round bout at the armory last night before 100 American Legion members. While the match was a friendly affair with no attempt at a real exhibition of the manly art of self-defense, the boys put up an interesting eight minutes of sport. Taking into consideration the fact that neither has been in the ring for more than a year and had no opportunity to get in any training, they showed good style.

Nichols outweighted Prox by about 15 to 20 pounds. He was there with a swift kick in his left mitt and a fast follow-up. Prox, who when in training is capable of a rapid tattoo and jab, was slow in his guarding in the first two rounds, but as he got more practice began to get back into form. Both men got in some good punches to the head and body.

The crowd was enthusiastic with visions of a revival of the flatfoot sport here. Plans are being made by the legion to arrange several matches for the next meeting, April 6.

CANADIAN BESTS YANKEE SKATERS

Winnipeg, Man., March 4.—Mike Goodman of Winnipeg won the Canadian skating championship with 90 points. He bested a classy field of American speed experts in the quarter and half mile, took second in the two mile, third in the three mile, and was just ahead out of a place in the five mile in a blanket finish between four skaters. American skaters won four of the six events.

LOCAL HIGH TEAM HAS LOTS OF PEP

Names of Eight Men Picked for Tournament Team Are Announced.

Janesville's classy high school basketball team with plenty of reserve pep, left the city on the 10:33 train this morning for Whitewater to play in the sectional tournament there. The men were in first class condition with plenty of confidence in the belief of their fellow students and this part of the state that they have an excellent chance of picking first place. Just prior to leaving, Coach Crumtree announced the eight men who will represent the school. They are: Hager and Grimes, forwards; Tull, stand, center; Powers and Black, guards; Smith, Taubacher and Newman, substitutes.
